Steven W. Broadbent is responsible for analyzing and assisting in the design, funding, and security of nonqualified benefit programs for publicly traded and large, privately held corporations.

Mr. Broadbent is a graduate of the University of Virginia with a degree in Nuclear Engineering. He also holds a Master of Business Administration from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a Master of Arts in Public Policy from the George Washington University.

Mr. Broadbent began his career as an officer in the U.S. Navy where he served in assignments at sea and in Washington, DC. He worked at AT&T for twelve years in a variety of sales, marketing, and operations positions. Prior to joining Clark Consulting, Mr. Broadbent served as an AT&T Sales Vice President in Los Angeles. Additionally, Mr. Broadbent was appointed by President George Bush to serve as a Deputy Assistant Secretary in the U.S. Department of the Treasury where he worked throughout the Bush Administration. While serving President Bush, Mr. Broadbent led White House Advance Teams on a number of diplomatic missions throughout Europe and the Mideast.

At Clark Consulting, Mr. Broadbent works closely with corporate clients to design the most effective benefits programs to attract and retain key executive talent and promote the building of shareholder value.
