David H. Fisher has over twenty years experience in the design, communication, implementation and administration of tax favored supplemental executive benefit programs. In his current role, David consults with clients on developing successful nonqualified executive benefit programs used to attract and retain key executives. As a part of this process, he has developed creative strategies for aligning the strengths of Clark Consulting with client objectives so as to ensure the resulting program maximizes the industries best practices. Areas of concentration include plan design, funding, security and administration.

David has been interviewed and published in various business publications including WorkSpan Magazine, Business First and Columbus CEO Magazine regarding executive benefit plans, business succession and life insurance matters.

David is a graduate of The Ohio State University with a major in Finance. He has also earned the Certified Financial Planner designation from the College for Financial Planning in Denver, Colorado. He and his wife live in Columbus, Ohio while their children attend college in North and South Carolina. Both David and his wife are active in Special Olympics Ohio and The Salvation Army.
